

Truth and falsehood.
List to a tale well worth the ear
Of all who wit and sense admire—
Invented—it is very clear—
Some ages prior to Mather Prior.
Falsely and Truth "upon a time,"
One day in Jule's delicious sea, her
(Twas in a distant age and clime.)
Like sister, took a walk together.
On, on their merry way they took,
Through fragrant meadow and verdant meadow,
To where a brook bedded a brook,
Invited rest beneath its shadow.
There, sitting in the pleasant shade,
Upon the margin's grassy matting,
(A velvet cushion ready-made)
The young company sat to chatting.
Now, while in valuable discourse,
On life and that long tale of woe,
As habit-beds each speaks—perforce,
The one is frank; the other cunning.
Falsehood, at length, impatient grown
With scandal of her own creation,
Said, "Since we two are quite alone,
And nicely screened from observation,
Support in this delightful rill,
While all around is so propitious,
We take a bath,"—and said, "I will—
A bath, I am sure, will be delicious."
At this her robe she cast aside,
And in the stream that ran before her
She played—like Ocean's happy child—
As asked for her mother's love her!
Falsehood at leisure now undressed,
Put off the robes her limbs that hamper,
And having donned Truth's snowy vest,
Ran off as fast as she could scamper.
Since then the subtle maid, in sooth,
Has borne the honest name of Truth,
And wears her robes on all occasions—
While Truth, disdaining to appear
In Falsehood's petticoat and bodice,
Still wears all eyes from year to year,
As asked as a marble goddess!
